

DR. OSCAR H. DUNTON DIES IN HOSPITAL

WARREN, DEAN OF SENATORS IS SUMMONED

Father-in-law of Gen. Pershing Asks to be Buried in Wyoming

By William K. Hutchinson
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The nation, mourning the loss of its oldest senator, will render fitting tribute to the passing of Senator Francis Emroy Warren at a state funeral in the senate chamber on Tuesday, it was announced today.
Under honors especially befitting a dean of the American Congress and a holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor.

As in life, where he spent 36 years in the senate, so in death will Senator Warren "serve" beneath the Capitol's dome, with the body lying in state in the Senate Chamber. The services Tuesday will be conducted there with all the solemnity and honor given a president in death.

Delegation of Senators, representatives and government officials will accompany the funeral party to Wyoming, for the interment.

Although eligible to sleep in Arlington with America's war heroes because of his services with the Union armies, Warren expressed a wish before his death to be buried in the soil of Wyoming. There he pioneered in the days when Wyoming was a part of the territory of Dakota, where he entered politics, there he won renown and there he died to sleep in death.

DIES SUNDAY
The veteran legislator died at 10 o'clock Sunday morning from Bronchial pneumonia. With him at the end were his sons, Frederick E. Warren of Wyoming, and his son-in-law, General John J.
Pershing. He was 86 years old.

The passing of Warren will bring a tremendous upheaval in the management of Republican affairs in the senate. The naming of a successor to him as chairman of the powerful senate appropriations committee which he headed from the end of the war to the time of his death, will bring far-reaching changes in committee assignments.

Senator Wesley L. Jones, of Wash., now acting Republican floor leader, will succeed to the appropriations chairmanship, under the senate's unwritten rule, this promotion will force Jones, retirement from the position of assistant Republican leader. Senator Charles L. McNary of Ore., probably will succeed to that post, according to present indications.

Along with the resignation of Senator Walter E. Edge, (R) of N. J. and the death of Senator Burton (R) of Ohio, the passing of Warren will force changes in the personnel of a dozen committees.

The promotion of Jones to the appropriations chairmanship, for instance, will give the commerce committee chairmanship, which he holds now, to either Senator Johnson (R) of Cal., or Senator Dale (R) of Vt. If Johnson takes it, then Senator Keyes (R) of N. H. will succeed the Californian as chairman of the immigration committee and Senator Fess (R) of Ohio, can give up the chairmanship of the library committee to take Keyes' post as chairman of the public buildings committee.
If Dale gets Jones' post, then Senator Pine (R) of Okla., will become chairman of the Civil Service committee.

Besides this tremendous shakeup in the committee chairmanships, there will be vacancies to be filled on the foreign relations, the finance, the appropriations, the military affairs, the judiciary and a half dozen other committees.
Senator Schall (R) of Minn., meanwhile is slated for chairmanship of the interoceanic canals committee, which Edge relinquished.

FRENCH TIGER GIVEN SIMPLE BURIAL RITES

Clemenceau Finds Eternal Rest in Loneliness of Little Wood

By FREDERIC K. ABBOTT
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
PARIS, Nov. 25.—Georges Clemenceau will find eternal rest today, as he wished, in the loneliness of a little wood of his beloved Vendee.

This morning his body was being borne southward in a motor hearse to his family burial ground just outside of the village of Mou-champs.

There he will be lowered into the ground without pomp and without religious rites. Only 30 relatives and close friends, most of whom followed the hearse south in private cars, will witness the simple ceremony.

All of his wishes in regard to his funeral have been carried out.
Armed guards have been thrown about the little cemetery to keep the curious away. No official representing the government will be present. There will be no religious rites.

But when the actual burial takes place at about noon, all France will honor the departed "Tiger" as few men have ever been honored before.

As the simple ceremony is taking place far to the south the "Canon of the Armistice" will boom out in a salute of 101 shots just as it did on that memorable 11th hour of the 11th day of Nov., 1918, when the world war hostilities ended.

And in answer to that salute, every artillery battery in French territory, every warship of France, will also boom out, just as they did on the day when
as they did on the day when

FLAGS AT HALF-MAST

Every flag on French territory will be at half-mast. Both the chamber of deputies and senate will meet in special session to honor the man who guided France during those stormy days of the war when for a time it seemed all was lost—and guided her to victory.

From that same rostrum where Clemenceau himself so often imposed his iron will by compelling oratory and in those same chambers where he engaged in hundreds of verbal duels with political adversaries, he will be eulogized by Premier Tardieu and Fernand Bouisson, president of the chamber of deputies.

Next Sunday those veterans of the war whom Clemenceau called "my children" will pay him homage. They will silently file past the grave of the unknown soldier, symbol of the country's dead.

There will be assembled President Doumergue, Premier Tar-dieu, the other cabinet members, the presidents of the chamber of deputies and senate, and other notables who will again pay tribute to the departed statesman in the name of the nation.

ceau's wish, Francois Brabant, his

CORN YIELD EXCEPTIONAL

Orient Institution Reports 1,195 Bushels on Ten Acres of Land

An exceptional yield of 1,195 bushels of corn on ten acres on the farm of the Institution for Feeble-minded at Orient was reported today by Dr. C. E. Kirby, superintendent of the institution.

A total of 250 acres of corn was harvested this fall, with ten acres entered in the Ohio One Hundred Bushel Corn Club. The yield of the ten acres was measured by H. S. Lewis, county agent, showing it to be 123.37 per acre. The average yield for the state is 37 bushels per acre. The selling percent of the corn was 82 per cent and the moisture content was 24.4 per cent making a corrected yield of 115.5 bushels.

Sweet clover was plowed under in April on the ten acre plot and 350 pounds of 0-14-6 fertilizer were sown broadcast with a grain drill, as one of the first sowing operations. One hundred and fifty pounds per acre of 4-12-4 fertilizer were applied as a hill application at planting time. The corn was checked three feet, one inch even way with four kernels per hill. One hundred pounds of Chilean nitrate of soda were used as a side dressing when the corn was about a foot high.

The cost to produce this yield was 30 cents per bushel, figuring all labor on a hired labor basis, and current prices on materials and land investment. The same general system of fertilizing was so lowed at other state institutions

LIEUT. CUDDIHY CRASH VICTIM

Well Known Navy Pilot Loses Control of Plane,
Then Dives

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Lieut.
George T. Cuddihy, one of the best known racing pilots of the navy, was instantly killed today when a Bristol fighting plane he was flying got out of control and crashed from a height of 6,000 feet.

Lieut. Cuddihy was a former holder of the world's seaplane record. He was 33 years old, and was appointed to the naval academy from Michigan.

The flyer took off from the navy flying field this morning after gaining some 10,000 feet altitude, he started a long dive.
When he was about 6,000 feet up observers on the field noticed that something seemed wrong with the ship, which was traveling at appalling speed.

The plane continued the dive and crashed onto the ground near the field with terrific impact.

covered Parked on the Ringgold Pike

Three automobiles were reported stolen to police while they were parked in Circleville's business district during the heavy business hours Saturday evening between 8 and 10 p. m. One was recovered Sunday afternoon.

The Chevrolet roadster belonging to B. F. Wellington, Amanda, parking place at 9:55 p. m. but was found by authorities Sunday at 3 p. m. parked near the Steve Evans residence on the Ringgold-pike. The car was not damaged.

The Ford Coupe of Tom Moore, R. F. D., Circleville, was taken from its parking place at the Memorial Hall about 8 p. m., Saturday it is thought. The car carries the license plate numbered B-87165 and the engine number is 3597336. No trace of this car has been found.

The Essex coach belonging to H. R. Binkley, E. Union-st., was

E. Main-st. between 9 and 10 p. m. and has not been seen since.

The car bears the license plate B-83284 and the engine number is 505053.

Local authorities report that the thefts of these three cars are the first that have occurred on the down-town streets in the last several months, although a car was reported stolen from a local garage last week and has not been recovered yet.

Police found a green Essex coach parked on N. Court-st. late Sunday which had been standing there for two days. It is thought the car is a stolen one. The license is one issued by the Columbus Automobile Club and is numbered 13,418.

was released from the county jail Monday under $500 bond after pleading not guilty to a charge of

WALKER PLEASED WITH HIS TITLE

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(INS)— "America's best dressed mayor" is satisfied with his title and seeks no further sartorial conquests.

This was made clear today when Mayor James J. Walker, laughingly decried the story from London that he was soon to be seen on state occasions in ceremonial robes more dazzling than those worn by the Lord Mayor, "the best English joke I ever read."

Chicago Snyder-Gray Case Brings Arrest of Wife and Salesman

From Chicago comes another triangle tragedy which brings back memories of the famous Snyder-Gray case in New York. William O'Brien, shot three times is not expected to live. Police are holding his wife, Mrs. Genevieve O'Brien and Samuel D'Orr, insurance salesman for the shooting. The authorities are endeavoring to solve the maze of conflicting statements made by Mrs. O'Brien and D'Orr (above), but they suspect that the triangle may parallel the famous Snyder case of a few years ago.

United States Wage Earners Lose Quarter of Million Days in Year

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(IN) S)—The $36,000,000 wage earners in the United States lose at least 250,000,000 work days yearly and the 24,000,000 school children 70-000,000 days per school year because of illness and physical and mental effects, according to a survey by the committee on the cost of medical care, and submitted to its semi-annual conference here today.

The survey indicated men are, on the average, sick at least once a year, women and children somewhat oftener. Among adults a great majority suffer from some physical or mental defect. While a number of these defects are relatively unimportant, serious and dangerous conditions are found among considerable percentages of the people.

Almost 1,500,000 persons are employed in the United States in connection with the care and prevention of illness, the committee reported. Although there are in the United States more physicians per 100,000 persons than in any other country in the world, the larger cities are over-supplied relative to population, whereas smaller towns and rural districts are relatively under supplied.

Five new members were added to the committee. They are: Dr.
William G. Ogburn, Chicago; Dr.
Ambrose Hunsberger, Philadelphia; Dr. C. E. Rudolph, Minneapolis; Dr. A. M. Schuytalla, St.

BANDITS GET $2500 HAUL

Holdup Camden Bus Garage,

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 25.—(IN) shotguns and pistols, invaded the Schultz Management Bus co. garage along the Black Horse-pk. early today at West Collingswood.

N. J., and trussing up the nine employees escaped with $2,500 in cash. The garage is just outside the city limits of Camden.

Carrying new ropes and straps, the robbers entered the garage about 4 a. m. and quickly intimidated the employees. Andrew Weidell, the night superintendent, was forced to open the safe and hand over the week-end receipts before he was bound hand and foot.

Eight of the employees were tied and laid out full length on the floor while the ninth was tied to the rear of a bus. Fifteen minutes from the time they entered the garage were roaring away in a high-powered automobile. A few minutes later one of the bound men freed himself and extricated his companions.

UREMIC POISON PROVES FATAL TO LOCAL MAN

Entire Family Present When Death Comes at 7 p. m.
Saturday

Dr. Oscar Howard Dunton, one of the best known physicians in Pickaway-co and for 18 years Coroner of this county succumbed to the effect of uremic poisoning at Grant hospital, Columbus, at 7 p. m. Saturday after vainly fighting a nine days' battle against the fatal attack which first struck his suddenly on Thursday of the previous week and caused his removal to the hospital the following morning. At that time his condition was considered so serious that Mrs. Dunton remained at the hospital day and night, while his daughter, Florence, with his sons, Sevell and James, hastened from Easton to join their sister, Mrs.
James H. Adams at his bedside.
Attending specialists held little hope for his survival, but a slight rally during the first two days of his confinement led his physicians and his host of friends and patients to hope for recovery. However, because the spread of the poison through his system could not be checked soon enough, he gradually weakened during the following days, and all hopes slowly vanished.

FAMILIAR FIGURE

For more than thirty-five years Dr. Dunton who was seventy-one years old had been a familiar figure in the life of this community, and his unnumbered friends in all parts of this county will mourn his passing. All through the years of his service in this section, he held an active interest in all civic affairs, particularly in the furtherance of welfare and correction work, and won for himself a respected position in the esteem of his professional associates as well as in the hearts of his patients.

For many years he was a member and president of the Board of County visitors and for several years represented Pickaway-co at State and National Conferences on Charities and Corrections. At the time of his death he was Treasurer of the Pickaway-Co Medical Society, and was a member of both the Ohio State Medical Society and the American Medical Society. By exercising an openminded interest in the ever changing medical sciences, he was able at all times to command an up-to-the-minute, yet always practical knowledge of the potentialities of his profession.

As an attending physician he was indefatigably conscientious, and many are the men and women in Circleville who owe their lives literally to all-night vigils of Dr.
Dunton. As a diagnostician and consultant, his opinion was valued to a rare degree by his professional colleagues in Circleville and nearby cities. Also, by virtue of

MAN ACCUSES PRES. HOOVER

Democratic Executive Says Tariff Bill's Failure
His Fault

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(IN) S)—Blame for the failure of the special session of congress to enact tariff revision was deposited on President Hoover's doorstep today by J. J. Shouse, chairman of the Democratic National Executive committee.

Shouse summed up the situation from a Democratic viewpoint by describing Mr. Hoover as "A leader who refused to lead."

Further, the chairman declared the Smoot-Hawley bill was of "indefensible character," that it failed to do justice to the farmers, the industrialists and the consumers in its original form, and actually had it been passed, "would have landed on the pocketbooks of the people of the United States to the extent of something like $800,- 000,000."

"Congress has adjourned with the Republican majority which accompanied Herbert Hoover into office shattered into fragments, each one of which represents the president's views," Shouse observed.
"But why should a shattered array be blamed for the discomfiture of a leader who refused to lead? Why blame even the senatorial old guard for failing to carry out the president's policies when actually can more than guess at what those policies are?"

OHIO WESLEYAN'S BISHOPS WIN MORAL VICTORY OVER CADETS

COLUMBUS, Nov. 25.—The mythical football flag, which was whipped about and kept soaring majestically by the winds of popularity during the 1929 gridiron season, lay idle against its mast today. A gust of interest will unfurl the folds again Thanksgiving Day and then the final "taps" will be blown by a few post-season classics.

Flowers for the living today should be presented to Ohio Wesleyan's scrapping bunch of Battering Bishops who held Christian Cagle and the remainder of the Army Saturday to a score of 19 to 6.

Chapeaux should be doffed to Baldwin Wallace, which died gamely in a gridiron contest with the Akron Zippers. The Berrans, who hitherto had led the Ohio Conference and had not been defeated by a team in that league, lost 13 to 0 Akron deserves praise, but its victory should be enough. The great American spirit of rooting for the under-dog cannot be denied and there was something heroic and grand in the way Coach Ray Watts' outfit fought throughout the entire season. It is at best a weak team, but until Saturday it had survived among the strong. The loss left Muskingum college in undisputed possession of the Ohio Conference crown.

OFFER OHIO LILLY

Speaking of flowers, a white lily would be appropriate for Ohio State's griders, who, in their final 1929 appearance, allowed the powerful Illinois machine to mow through them for a 27-to-0 victory. Nobody, with a sound mind, really expected the Buckeyes to win, but yet the large score was not anticipated and it was a great disappointment. The fight was taken out of the Bucks and as they moth-ball their pigskin suits today, they haven't anything to be proud of except their Big Ten victories over Iowa and Michigan.

Returning to discussion of the Ohio-Wesleyan-Army conflict, the hero of the game, besides the mighty Cagle who galloped 66 yards for one of Army's three touchdowns, was Charlie Wertz, the Bishops' right half, who snagged a pass over the goal and dropped in his tracks for the Ohio aggregation's only score. Wesleyan made 269 yards from scrimmage as compared to Army's 135 yards. The Bishops pounded the future-generals' forward wall for 20 first downs, while their own line held the cadets to six.

The score stood nothing all at the end of the half. The Army regulars were sent at the start of the second half and Cagle started Army's scoring by breaking Wesleyan's left tackle for a 66-yard run. Wesleyan outtoughed Army, but it lacked the experience and generalship of the West Point mole-skin-wearers.

The result, however, can be considered as a moral victory for Coach George Gauthier's pigskin craftsmen, and no matter where one glances nothing except commendation can be found to extend to the 1929 team of Ohio Wesleyan University. Its season was marred by one loss to Ohio University, but then, considering all things, it is no disgrace to be beaten by the greatest little football team in Ohio, which the Bobcats assuredly are.

ATLANTA AND NEW HOLLAND CLASH

The Atlanta and New Holland high school basketball teams opened the season Friday night at New Holland. Girls' game was called at 7:30 and was an interesting game. New Holland fans lost so much energy rooting for their team that throughout the boys' game they could do nothing but "sit pretty." Score 19 to 18 in favor of New Holland. The boys' game between Atlanta and New Holland was the big kick of the evening and some were disappointed at the important showing. To tell how bad Atlanta's team outplayed New Holland boys' could be put in a book and made an interesting story but since we don't have room in the newspaper to go into details we will say they played New Holland clear off their feet. When success comes on your first attempt you get the idea the other fellow is pretty pitiful. Well at the first foot of the referee's whistle there was never a doubt in any one's mind which team was best. But to come right down to the important point of the game, the bunch of sturdy never say fail, well coached basketball players representing Atlanta high school boys' team out scored the New Holland boys to the unbelievable score of 24 to 6.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Overmire of Columbus spent Saturday with J. W. Morris and family.

World Owes Great Debt to Benedictine Monks

Some of the most wonderful books on earth are in the monasteries founded by St. Benedict at Rome 1,400 years ago. During the dark Middle Ages when barbarians were sacking libraries the Benedictine monks of Montecassino patiently copied immortal works and thus preserved for today priceless books that would otherwise have been lost forever. Among them are "The Golden Ass" and the "Metamorphoses" of Apuleius; the history and Annals of Tacitus; Cicero's oration "Pro Cluentio" and his essays, "Republic" and "About the Laws"; "The Nature of the Gods" and Ovid's "Fasti." The oldest grammar in history was also preserved intact by the Benedictines. This was Varro's "Latin Language." Montecassino kept unburned the only original copy. Upon this all grammars given to the grammar taught in schools, have in part been based. The work of the Benedictine monks in preserving priceless books of the church has been even more remarkable. Original works of St. Jerome, St. Augustine, St. Cyprian and St. Ambrose; the most ancient papal decree, that of John VIII; the oldest text of a decree by Gratian, famous compiler of laws, have all been saved from the depredations of time by the Benedictine brethren.

COLLEGE MEN WORK 'GAINST CLUB SUNDAY

C. A. C. Squad Ready to Open Season Thanksgiving Against Newark

With a lengthy workout at the gymnasium Sunday, the Circleville Athletic Club basketball team pronounced themselves ready to open their 1929-30 court season Thanksgiving Day against the Newark Y. M. C. A.

Considerably more opposition was offered the Club tossers Sunday than at any time in their practice sessions to date for George Vierebome, local boy, and Chuck Waring, both Muskingum College luminaries, donned uniform and joined in the afternoon's scrimmage.

The club defeated the pickup gang but only after a hard and strenuous contest.

There were several stellar performers in the two lineups Sunday with Boyce Parks, Club bat-off, showing to exceptional advantage. Howard White, former Chillicothe luminary, looked good at a guard post for the scrubs.

The Club lineup which will probably start the Newark game will be Steele and Gordon at the forwards, Parks at center, and Merriam and Dick Robinson at guards.

The preliminary which has been arranged with, see Sam Grant's Flying Cloud squad tackle the fast Chillicothe St. Mary's team. The Cloud's backer has purchased bright new blue uniforms which the team will don for the first time Thanksgiving.

The preliminary gets under way at 7:30 p. m.

BAD WEATHER RAISE CORN PRICE

What price seed corn? The ability of the Pickaway-corn farmer to select and properly store a supply of seed corn for his 1930 acreage will be the final answer to this question. The immaturity of the crop accompanied with the hazard of very unfavorable harvesting weather, indicates the possibility of a critical seed corn situation.

The high moisture content and presence of mold in corn emphasizes the importance of storing the seed ears so that they do not touch each other and in a place where they may dry. If the seed corn may be stored where the moisture may be reduced mechanically through the application of heat, this practice would be advisable in view of freezing temperatures.

Some precaution and care relative seed corn selection and protection now should prove valuable insurance to a profitable corn crop in 1930.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote, that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

RHEUMATIC MISERY QUICKLY VANISHES

Columbus Man Thankful to Spina-go for Driving Away Twenty Year Old Ailment

Spina-go, the sure medicine, is daily adding to its list of friends by its quick and efficient action in driving out rheumatism, neuritis, liver, kidney, stomach and bowel complaints, indigestion and dyspepsia.

Among the many residents of Ohio, who are anxious to praise this new tonic for what it has done for them is Mr. Michael Riley, who resides in Columbus at 219 N. High-st. Mr. Riley speaks as follows:

MICHAEL RILEY.

"What twenty years treatment by doctors and various medicines couldn't do, Spina-go accomplished in less than one month. Twenty years is a long time and suffering only makes it seem longer. During these years I was kept in constant misery by sharp rheumatic pains shooting through my arms, shoulders and legs. Many days, the pain was so intense that I could hardly get about. Coupled with this, constipation bothered me terribly. My condition went from bad to worse and my system was very run down. Finally I tried Spina-go as a last resort and you can imagine my surprise when I found that I was steadily growing better. One week and I was improved and at the end of a month all trouble vanished. I now feel better than I have in twenty years. No more constipation. I am gaining in weight and my body has new tone and life. And I have Spina-go to thank for these wonders. At 71 years of age I can recommend Spina-go as the most wonderful medicine I have ever known.

Spina-go is sold and guaranteed in Circleville at the Mykrantz Pharmacy, 107 N. Court-st. where crowds call daily to learn more about its merit. Spina-go is also sold and guaranteed at all other good drug stores in this vicinity.

Stock Market Break is Direct Aid To Farmers, Says Research Director

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 25.—Not only will the agricultural industry not be greatly depressed by the recent break in the stock market, but what was a tragedy to many in Wall Street may even prove a direct benefit to farmers, says C. J. West, research director of the Ohio Farm Bureau Corporation.

Although the break indirectly resulted in lower prices for farm products, it will also have the effect of making more money available to the country banks because of the slackening demand for money in New York.

Where country banks have been able to obtain money only with great difficulty, conditions have been almost completely reversed so that for a time at least the farmer has a better chance of obtaining loans than he has had for some time. Money always goes to the place where the highest interest rates are offered. Loans declined were $2,441,000 for October, and as a result, after months of eight, nine and even 15 and 20 per cent, the interest rate of New York went back to five and one-half and six per cent. Naturally, with rates in New York no higher than can be obtained in Ohio, many thousands of dollars will remain here for loan purposes.

Farmers in Ohio have found great difficulty in obtaining loans on farm land security because the money was in New York City. Many dealers selling fertilizers and other supplies to farmers have been unable to extend credit to farmers.

The farmer is now in a position to benefit because he is producing food supplies which are required even though not so many automobiles and other manufactured articles should be purchased. When prices are rising and people are speculating, the manufacturers of the less essential commodities have an advantage, however, and prices are declining the producer of food products has his turn and he fears much better than do the others.

Wheat and corn prices are lower than if we had not seen a break in the stock market. Many holders of wheat and corn were interested in the stock market and were compelled to sell when the market started down. Holders of storage eggs may, in some instances, have been compelled to sell and in this way crowded the market for these products. The same is probably true of some holders of lamb. These effects in lowering prices will probably be only temporary so that we may expect prices of farm products to recover somewhat. The recovery may not be apparent in every case because other influences may be downward but it would seem that prices will be higher later, everything else considered, than at present.

The stock market break has caused prices for farm products to be somewhat lower through its general effect. Purchasers are questioning whether prices may not be still lower and are accordingly buying only in small amounts with the result that the market for farm products loses support at a time when it is needed.

With the past year's speculation out of the way the coming year is more promising for Ohio farmers chauffeur and friend, personally prepared the grave into which the former premier will be lowered. Although fatigued to the breaking point after a three day vigil at the dying man's bedside, he left on the 300 mile journey to the Vendee, a few hours after Clemenceau's death.

Brabant is the only one who knows exactly where Clemenceau wished to have his body placed. Months before, he had been told to depart for the grave at the moment of death and prepare it properly so that Clemenceau could be buried upright as was his father, Dr. Clemenceau.

PAY TRIBUTE
All day yesterday officials of the French government and representatives of foreign governments called at the Rue Franklin home of Clemenceau to pay their personal tributes.

Premier Tardieu was the first to call at 3 a. m., President Doumergue called at 9 a. m., army officers, cabinet members, senators and deputies called all through the day. Among those who called were Norman Armour, American charge d'affaires and Lord Tyrrell, British ambassador.

While hundreds of notables filed past the bier, Francois Sicard, French sculptor, molded a death mask at the family's request.

M. Clemenceau is believed to have left a comparatively small estate.

It is not believed his three direct heirs, his son, Michel, his two daughters Mme. Jacquemaire and Mme. Young will divide more than $20,000 among them.

The French press continued to pay tribute to M. Clemenceau today as a "superman" and the "Father of Victory."

Even his sharpest critics credited him with having been a "Savior of France."

For a SORE throat

A sore throat may be eased by gargling just once, with quarter of a glass of water in which you have dissolved two tablets of Bayer Aspirin. You may have to repeat the treatment for a deep-seated inflammation like tonsillitis, but Bayer Aspirin is the one thing that reduces the infection.

Don't forget this most sensible of all treatments for sore throat. The one the nurses all know; the one which all doctors concede to be effective. And remember its quick relief of neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism, lumbago and the like. Use it to break-up any cold, or to dispel a headache. It does not depress the heart. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer manufacture of monoaceticacidester of salicylic acid.

Clemenceau, the famous French war premier and statesman of a thousand battles, dying, urged his friends to save him from the splendor of a national funeral. "I won't have one!" he declared. "I want to be buried with the utmost simplicity."

An American statesman who died recently spent the last two weeks of his life carefully planning a public funeral in his home city. It had been his life ambition to have a state funeral. With all the details worked out, he died content.

There is no accounting for taste, even in death.

One type of funeral is inherently as good as another. It comes to the same thing in the end. "All go to the same place." And being there, it probably matters not at all what sort of funeral they had. It is well to grant anyone's last desires when possible. That eases the dying hours. Yet funerals are more for the living than the dead. On the living they have some effect.

TOLERANCE

Two men and a woman were convicted of "criminal syndicalism" the other day in a little Ohio town. They are liable to fines up to $5000 and up to 10 years apiece in jail. That wakes up a lot of Ohio citizens who didn't know their state had any law on the subject. It seems doubtful whether the defendants themselves knew they were breaking any law. The average Ohio citizen, while feeling very little sympathy for those particular "syndicalists" or "Communists" or what ever they are, and condemning their propaganda methods, hardly knows what to make of it. A Cleveland judge says "the law itself is iniquitous and unconstitutional, and should have been repealed long ago."

A lawyer says: "My understanding is that the constitution guarantees the right to hold any opinion, and to spread it as long as violent methods are not used." Another recalls the celebrated remark of a British statesman, that he hated the opinion expressed by an opponent, but would fight to the death in defense of his right to express it.

That's sporting, anyway. It is, or used to be, British. Quite a few Americans think it's American, in line with the doctrines of the Fathers of the Constitution. There seems to be practical logic as well as tolerance in this attitude. If you forbid ideas just because the majority at the time disapproves of them, you're going to lose some valuable ideas and discourage the type of mind that produces them. Maybe it's worth while to endure the bad for the sake of the good.

THE EFFECT OF A STORM

"The Masked Hostess" by BLAIR STEVENSON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:
Upon the death of her father, "Happy Jack" Van Slaick, once wealthy sportsman and social leader, Nathalie Van Slaick, young and beautiful, finds herself left a few dollars and an old, abandoned Long Island estate called "The First." After being coldly repulsed by her rich aunt, Mrs. Pemberton Swayne, Nathalie in desperation cashes a check for $300 for which there are no funds. Without her knowledge, John Sloan, young lawyer, assigned to her affairs, makes the check good. Fearing that a detective is trailing her, Nathalie leaves a train at Brookville, Long Island. From the president of the local bank, a mercenary Shylock, who holds the mortgage on "The First," which he desires because the new state road will enhance its value, Nathalie accepts a strange proposition. It is to act as hostess at "The First," which is to be rented to a wealthy Southern American who wishes to entertain his friends. On the condition that her identity remain hidden by wearing a silken mask, Nathalie meets the handsome foreigner, who turns out to be Capt. Ramon Stefano, supposedly of great wealth and much sought after by the young smart set. He does not know that she has previously met her. Nathalie, with a black transformation and Spanish costume and the mask, is unrecognizable. Sloan, in love with Nathalie, warns her of the danger she will be in due to the romantic nature of herself and Stefano. Neither of them realizes that Stefano is without funds and is being supported in this venture by a mysterious ex-policeman engaged in shady deals. This man, Ferris, had previously trailed Nathalie seeking her estate. He finances Stefano in his strange venture, hoping to draw a visit from Nathalie. The opening of "The First," completely remodeled and furnished with a staff of servants, is an outstanding social success. The wealthy Long Island crowd are intrigued by the Masked Hostess.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.)

CHAPTER XV.
NATHALIE blew a kiss toward them as a Gauchon band of six pieces, in native costume, and the men singing as they marched to the tune of their wildly swaying instruments, invaded the house from out among the fir trees and took their places on a raised dais which had been set up in preparation for them. Stefano seized Nathalie and swept away to the throbbing of the pampas music as the boy who had first cried out slid toward her with outstretched arms across the polished floor. He laughed as he missed her and turned to another girl, who opened her arms to him. Directly other couples followed them to the floor and all who were in the house were dancing.

"We're a success—a tremendous success already," whispered Stefano to Nathalie as he swept her among the other dancers. "Hold your Spanish pose for they believe you. They've fallen for it, I say. You Americans say. And I've mind if I ask you this—I've a rather serious reason for it. Do you especially cotton to the flowing gown?"

"Now and then a cocktail. Never any more than that," replied Nathalie. "I don't understand why you want to know." "You would, you're sharp," he returned quickly. "I'm glad to see you. I see you with me. Naturally some of the crowd who here will be more or less split by gray dawn and you'll need to keep your guard up. Of course you can count on me if a situation comes up that's at all awkward, for being Latin I spare my drinks and don't drench myself in them. So I'll stay on my feet—dressed on me for it."

well known that she was in America. For if some who knew her were to recognize and acclaim her the fact that she had been identified would be picked up as a morsel by the social journals and perhaps some sensational daily newspaper would get hold of the story as well. Next detectives would arrive.

But she gathered courage as a girl who had been her fellow pupil at an English school came up to her and began to ask her questions about the music the Gauchon band was playing, and, when Nathalie had evaded her interrogations skillfully as she could, complimented her on her "pretty English" and asked if it had taken her long to learn it.

By two in the morning there was no need for her to fear that anyone in the house was greatly concerned about who she was. Cocktails had been flying fast. One good looking lad and a handsome girl loitered one against the other on a divan, she with her head on his shoulder and both fast asleep. Another girl, her counterpart, the very mirror of well-bred dignity, tottered not too steadily to the top of the main staircase and setting herself astride the banister rail slid down it to the main floor again amid shrieks of applause.

Laughter, its din increased by the blare of the musicians as they sought to make themselves and what was above it fairly rocked the house. And yet there was decorum and order.

The boy who had first whooped out his appreciation as he saw Nathalie was standing by her now. His eyes a little swimming and a capful of grace on his well-cut features, Adamant still, he told her that she was a "diva" and could have listened to the tan gango in which his feelings found escape.

The Prize Book

One day a friend of mine overtook an Indian carrying a heavy crate of berries to the city market. He had struggled on for many miles and his back was bent under the burden. The lady wanted berries for preserving, so they were required for some and put them in their car. Then, as the Indian was starting off again, his load somewhat enlightened, my friends decided that they would take his entire stock. But to their amazement he would sell them no more. "No," he said, "if I let you have all my berries, I will have nothing to eat when I get to the city." So he labored for many miles—150 on Creighton of Mexico in the Forum.

DR. COPELAND SAYS—BIG PERCENTAGE OF ILLS CAN BE AVOIDED

Wrong Diet, Lack of Exercise, Fresh Air and Sunshine to Blame for Many Present Day Diseases, Says Dr. Copeland.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

HEALTH is natural, disease is unnatural. Some twenty-three centuries ago, Hippocrates said, "Nature is the cure of disease." He pointed out the fact that diet is better than drugs, and prevention better than cure.

Today the prevention of disease is one of the most vital of all issues. It is time we more keenly realized the importance of right living and the art of keeping well. Civilization has brought with it many, many ills. These are ills which nature never intended should exist.

Sir W. Arbuthnot Lane, famous consulting surgeon at Guy's Hospital, London has said "Approximately 90 per cent of our physical defects, disorders and diseases would appear to be preventable, and are due in the main to faulty nutrition, lack of fresh air and exercise, stagnation of decomposing intestinal contents, and other simple matters which can easily be corrected."

Primitive races, though living unhygienically and unscientifically, usually have excellent teeth, strong and straight bones, roomy jaws, throats and noses. They are free from dental decay, catarrh, tonsillitis and many of the ailments which afflict mankind today.

But primitive man lives near to Nature. He exercises freely, lives in the fresh air and sunshine, and eats of Nature's foods.

Most important of all things is that people should live more natural lives. They should get back to eating the more hardy foods. They should seek to maintain the normal condition of body and mind. Most of our disease are caused by faulty living. The only way to have good health is by taking the right diet, getting the proper amount of rest and sleep, and absorbing plenty of sunshine and fresh air.

The ancients recognized the value of sunlight. Every one knows about their worship of the sun-god. We should pay more attention to sunshine. Ultra-violet rays are better understood now and we appreciate that they are essential to the physical welfare of the race.

Tuberculosis is a disease of faulty living. Innumerable drugs and serums have been used in fighting it. But it is cured, not by these methods but by changing the method of living. The remedy lies in the right kind of food, sunlight and fresh air with proper exercise and rest.

The body has great reserve power to counteract the work of germs, which are present everywhere. Here Nature has provided for us. We should do everything to keep the body tissues to a healthy state, so that we shall be in condition to withstand the wily bacteria.

A noted physician has said, "For the body to keep healthy it is of course, necessary that all the organs and tissues should be in a fairly normal condition. There are various vital properties which make the healthy organism. One of these is the strong natural immunity of the body to infection." This comes from "right living."

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Should a young mother, who falls in her best efforts to make ends meet, give the custody of her infant son to his father because he is extremely wealthy and can give the child advantages and luxuries that she cannot?

Is this maternal sacrifice the greatest form of love there is?

This is one of the dramatic twists in Gloria Swanson's first all-talking and singing United Artists picture, "The Trespasser," written and directed by Edmund Goulding, which is at the Cliftona theatre Monday and Tuesday.

In the production, Miss Swanson resumes her position as the secretary to a Chicago corporations lawyer when her marriage to a millionaire's son is annulled by the father. Out of a long siege of financial difficulties comes her decision to entrust her little son to his father's people. The facts and circumstances surrounding this decision are said to represent the most dramatic theme of the star's screen career.

Robert Ames plays the husband in "The Trespasser," and blue-eyed and curly-haired Wally Albright is seen and heard as the little son.

AT THE GRAND

"The Gamblers" was greeted enthusiastically by last night's audiences at the Grand theatre. It undoubtedly marks the most perfect attainment of the talking screen to date. Dialogue, each word vital and telling, (a transcript of the words of Charles Klein, whose drama of the same name enjoyed a spectacular run on Broadway and the road) is recorded perfectly, and rendered perfectly by the players.

Director Curtiz makes discreet use of his genius for giving scenes at different camera-angles, and in bringing out the divergent angles of thought. The story is that of two Wall Street financiers, a father and son, known as the "gambling Emersons." The son oversteps the law in loaning money, and is caught in his own net, and on the verge of a government investigation. The prosecutor is married to his former sweetheart, who trades upon her husband's love for her, to cause him to free young Emerson from the charge of dishonesty.

AT THE MET

If you can imagine a picture that combines the best comedy talent in Hollywood, scores of beautifully dressed girls, glittering Broadway settings, snappy music, jazzy night clubs, ultra-clever dialogue, all produced with the masterful comedy direction of Mack Sennett, you've just got a rough idea of what "Midnight Daddies," the feature at the Met theatre, really is.

"Midnight Daddies," is Mack Sennett's first venture into the fields of feature length all-talking comedies, and with it the veteran producer proves that as a feature maker he is a formidable contender for first honors. His years of experience in making short laugh films have all been concentrated in making his multiple reel feature and the screen results are seen in "Midnight Daddies."

"The rib-wrecking comedy presents Harry Gribbon and Andy Clyde comedians who have made such a success in Sennett's shorter pictures, in the featured roles of a production that will add another to the long list of Sennett successes. The story is one of Broadway and Fifth avenue, New York, with the glitter and glamour of the big city in every scene.

English Sailor Held as National Hero in Japan

In 1926 the tercentenary of the death of Will Adams, the Japanese government erected in Tokyo a statue to this national hero, who died lord high baron pilot of Japan, says the Kansas City Times. Adams, an Englishman, was Drake's storekeeper when the Spanish armada was destroyed, but, being of a religious turn of mind, he objected to the piratical ways of the great captain and went into seagoing business on his own account.

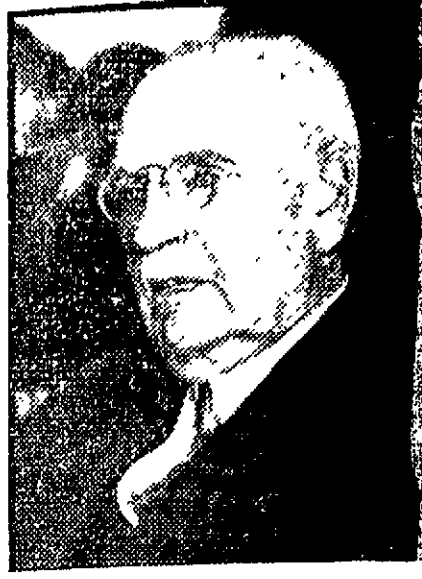

He set sail for the Far East as master pilot of five ships and landed on the shores of Japan in 1600, with one ship, in which there were left only five surviving men who were able to stand. Adams and his companions were brought before the great Tokuzawa Shogun, who took a fancy to the Elizabethan captain and asked him to build a ship for the Imperial navy. This he did with such success that he mounted into high favor with the emperor.

Timid Young Man Gets Points on Reporters

A timid young man who writes printable poetry has recently been engaged as a reporter on one of the New York dailies. Two days before he got on the job he was concerned about whether he was going to qualify for the new work. "Tell me," he urged, "do reporters fear madly around the city room as they are usually pictured doing? Isn't it permissible ever to walk, not run, to the nearest exit?" It wasn't made quite clear where the young man had received his information, but a newspaper reporter in the group was able to comfort him.

"Don't you worry about that," he said. "The best reporter I have ever known never got up from his desk unless some one brought food into the room. The rest of the time he divided between writing and calling for the copy boys. He was the laziest man on the staff. And he happened to be the most brilliant."—Exchange.

Distinctive Watermarks

Watermarks in paper have been used for a long time to lend distinction to the product of a particular paper maker and for other purposes. One of the oldest, a circle surmounted by a tall cross is found in documents dating back to the fourteenth century. Other old marks are the fleur-de-lis, the coat of arms, the hand pointing to a five-pointed star and the tankard, well known in papers of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries.

He first practiced medicine in Champaign-co., Ohio, and came to Circleville in 1894.
